LOT 442

442—1918-D over 7, Brilliant Unc., with light Blue & Gold tinting. One of the Rarest United States coins in Unc. condition. Our search of Auction catalogs and price lists indicate that such great Rarities as the 1804 Dollar have actually been offered for sale more often than has the 1918-D over 7 nickel in Unc. This speciman which was struck from a slightly worn die is superior to most of the few known. Where they usually have a very weak reverse this one has a nice reverse with full horn and hips. It shows only slight weakness at top of head and bottom edge of 19. The 7 shows clearly above and thru the 8. While not quite up to the sharp struck 1918-D over 7, I sold at the Los Angeles convention in February 1961 for $5,000.00, it is nevertheless probably among the 3 or 4 best ones known and a fair price should be about -- $3,500.00

LOT 1559 (PLATE)

1559—1871-CC Uncirculated, some minor hairlines in field but considerable prooflike Luster, over all a choice and Brilliant Coin. A search of name sales of the past ten years does not reveal another offering of this coin in uncirculated, Fairbanks had Very Fine, Dupont about Ex. Fine (which was the best located), Holmes, Straus, Donlon, etc. None, and on back to Max Mehl's Great Neil sale in 1947 which had only Very Good. No previous price comparison to go by, But a Rarity of this magnitude could easily bring 3000.00

1560—1872 Brilliant Proof ---------- 80.00

1561—1872-CC Extremely Fine, considerable Mint Luster still evident, another Great Rarity especially so Choice. (PLATE) Worth ---------- 750.00

In view of the fact the 1804 Dollar has been offered far more often than has the 1873-CC in Unc. condition, it would seem this Choice Rarity could easily Bring Over ---------- 4000.00

When this copy was first written above 1903-O was a $600.00 coin, then while still at the printers, word was received that many of the 1903-O dollars had been released thru Federal Reserve Banks. While this is seemingly a painful event to those of us who own them at comparatively high prices, it really should not be regarded as such.

For the same thing has happened several times in the past and each time, lowering the price of one or two expensive dollars, it has made the set as a whole more attainable, thus more desirable to a greatly increased number of collectors and this results in increased demand and higher prices for the other 90 or so dollars in the set. So if you happen to own a 1903-O at a high price and are feeling blue at the big drop, cheer up, it will probably result in a greater over all profit on your other dollars in the long run. Remember millions of silver dollars were struck and stored whether needed or not (a situation that is not true with Minor Coins). No silver dollars have been made for 28 years and the backlog has been draining out for the past 21 years, and 270 million silver dollars were melted in 1919 all of which had to come out of the 1878-1904 series. The recent pre-Christmas releases were the result of dmand for silver dollars created not only by the holiday season but by the increasing price of silver and number of silver dollar collectors. The end of the mint hoarded dollars is not far distant

The big question, what dates remain in the buried balance and do they include the Rare 1895? But if the entire 12,000 1895's that the Mint records show, should become available, So What? This would be the biggest boon yet for dollar collectors and the small issue would be so quickly absorbed, that the Unc. would no doubt soon be bringing about as much as the proof is now. So let's look at the situation realistically. Bring on those beautiful dollars, the Mint loss is our gain!
